Wild Argentina and Patagonia

With maté in hand and the wind at your back.

When: Wednesday, 4 March, from 5:30 p.m.

Where: Filadelfie building shopping arcade, Želetavská 1525/1

Speaker: Michal Kroužel

Argentina is a country of people with open hearts and a thermos of maté always close at hand. We will explore why life without this drink is hard to imagine and why local hospitality is a matter of honour. From the cities, we will head towards the lakes, mountains and forests of northern Patagonia and to the rugged beauty of the south, home to wild animals and much-loved penguins.

We will also cross into Chile and see that its wilderness is just as captivating. The highlight will be an expedition with gauchos to a land where the maps seem to end - among endless forests, herds of cattle and loyal horses. You'll learn what they eat on their journeys and what the night sky looks like in complete darkness and silence.

Join us for the latest in our series of travel evenings at Brumlovka.

Meera Design: An image that speaks before words

At Brumlovka, you meet women who know that professionalism does not end with work results. Challenges that women encounter in the professional environment include:

- needing to align visual presentation with the level of position and responsibility,
- transitioning to a higher role where “business casual” no longer meets expectations,
- lack of time for daily outfit decisions,
- finding balance between representativeness and authenticity,
- feeling that the current wardrobe no longer reflects professional growth.

A style that promotes professional confidence

Personal styling consultancy by Meera Design approaches image as a conscious part of professional identity. Stylists analyse both the working environment and the client’s personal style and create a functional, representative wardrobe accordingly. The collaboration includes optimising existing pieces and carefully adding new ones to create a long-term, sustainable and consistent visual concept. The result is a clear dressing system that saves time and boosts confidence in every professional situation.
